Chapter 1 by Leonard

Humanity has become something..... savage... hard to explain.

I have been able to survive the last 20 years.

But I don't know if I can make it beyond the "walls"

Chapter 2 by intellikat

They brought me to the zoo as a young chimpanzee. An orphan. I have been raised my entire life in captivity. At first, my human keepers were good to me. But then something changed.

One day there were sirens and alarms. The zoo was full of activity and then it went silent. Explosions beyond the walls. Screaming. We were terrified in our pens and cages. It seemed that some of the keepers attempted to release us animals, but others simply fled. By nightfall, there was something new... the humans seemed to be gone... or to have changed. New humans entered the zoo and began to stumble around the grounds, moaning, shuffling. Searching for food. They killed and ate poor animals before my eyes. I saw it. The humans had changed into something... horrible.

The other chimps and I had some food left in our large pen, what with the trees and plants and regular store. But it was time to go. We had to find a way out and over the wall. To escape back into the the only place that was safe.

Chapter 4 by intellikat

She was not like the others, however, and scared as I was, she calmed me. I never saw my family again. I was taken to a medical facility where these humans studied me and ran tests on me for longer than I truly cared for. But they were not unkind. What they were doing, I could not ascertain. Though my vocabulary is quite good, I was never good at deduction.

And then one day, the humans all seemed quite excited at something.

Chapter 5 by LockoutMovement

They were all sitting in front of a big black box. I have never seen such a thing before. Since I have been living in this facility for more than a year now, I was able to read a little. The box was showing them some moving pictures, and from behind the bars of my cell I was able to read these word, these letters that were shown at the beggining: TARZAN.

Oh, the bottom of absurdity, how deep are you? I was sitting there, imbued with terror. I was watching a story about a man raised by apes, story based on my own life, life of ape raised by man! Mom, I'm on TV!

Chapter 6 by Mahammad Shirinov

Amelie, the woman that caught me the first day I came over the wall was the one who would feed me and look after me. She used to be very kind, not like the people at the zoo. But something has changed about her... I could sense a feel of terror and hatred in her eyes when she entered my cage.

The next day I heard her talking to Joseph - the bald man in a white coat.

- This can't be true - they can't be infected.
- There's nothing we can do, Amelie. It seems like nothing from that side of the wall is pure.
- What are we gonna do?

There's not many options we have right now. We can't let those apes infect some of us. We have to get rid of them, soon as possible.

I was dumbfounded. There was a day when they found something. 'Are we really infected? If so, what will happen to us?' But one thing was certain: we had to flee - we couldn't survive here more than a day. "I have to tell my friends"

Chapter 7 by Brock Thompson

As I rushed to the room the scientists kept me and my friends, questions kept springing up in my mind.

Infected? What did that mean?

I knew it was bad, because the scientists said it a lot when they were studying the bad humans outside.

Were those humans infected? Was I like them?

I arrived at the room and spread the word that we were going to be gotten rid of.

We hatched a plan and got into position later that night...
